

STAR RESONATOR

Both the Colonial Star Resonator and the Double Star Resonator are Radionic Devices, and project a frequency which is calming, and non-violent.

They were developed some years ago for people in California during the period of the Los Angeles riots. This was a period when people feared being dragged from their car and being beaten to death by a mob, or having someone loot their store and then kill them for no reason.

The Colonial Star Resonator was based upon the original American Colonial Flag which employed Sacred Geometry. The five-pointed star has been considered protective in many cultures for thousands of years. The circle is a protective form. The number 13 (13 stars in the circle), is spiritual, symbolizing Christ and 12 disciples. All of these features were employed in the Colonial Flag because the colonists feared violent attack from Indians, pirates, Spain, etc. Secondly, they feared witchcraft, otherwise known as mental malpractice, i.e., using the mind to harm others, or just the effect of non-deliberate, but angry thoughts. These problems are still common today. Thoughts are things. It is a scientific fact that thoughts affect us and those around us.

The Double Star Resonator is one five-pointed star placed upon another. This design occurs both as single stars and as double stars in nature over and over again. We have five toes, five fingers, a head and four limbs. So does your dog, your cat. Sycamore leaves, fig leaves, and hundreds of flowers have arrangements of five petals. In nature, a five-pointed star flower reduces environmental radiations.

Both the Colonial and Double Star Resonators employ a dielectric resin. Dielectric materials are the strongest collectors of electromagnetic energy known. The stars also have a white Crystal Catalyst® Bead in the center. White is a spiritual color containing all the colors of the rainbow. Crystal Catalyst is an Advanced Ceramic Dielectric material, the most powerful ever developed. It absorbs harmful energies and discharges them in a beneficial rate. The rate is a "Life Energy" rate which is between that of the human solar plexus and the human heart. This is based on scientific testing.

Just having one of the Resonators in your purse, or placed in the home can have profound effects where there are bad vibes, or violence is a problem. We have many such testimonials from users.
